

Administering a benchmark to actual models is a controlled study, not a manual chat

Use diagnostic baselines to test mechanics; use real model calls only when making claims about model performance.